

Weapons
Sundance Film Festival 2007

Weapons is a flick starring Nick Cannon
With a supporting cast of kids
Possessing the ambition of Dakota Fanning.

And yes, it is another hood film,
deserving of props
Even with its back drop
Of sling rocks and wicked jump shots.

It feels of Shakespeare in modern day
One star crossed lover obsessed in love led astray.

The best part of the film is how it's told
From end to beginning the drama unfolds.

From flashback to revenge we climax in utter bliss
With a strange and awkward Jungle Fever Kiss.

Mos Def this is a hip hop flick that we give a "B"
Definitely something I would wait to cop on DVD.
